On-Ramps to Careers is a non-profit business-education partnership that makes technology career paths more accessible and effective for underserved students in the Nation's Capital. We empower students and employers to impact our region's economy through: internships that inspire students to pursue STEM careers, engagement with STEM professionals, STEM career training and placement, and partnerships with employers, educators and the community.

Funds raised will enable 100 Washington, DC students to get tech internships or industry certification training
